| The Governor's School for the Arts Policy on Continued Enrollment The Governor's School programs are designed for students with superior levels of ability in the arts who have above average dedication and commitment and who have the ability and the desire to do serious work. The nature and location of the programs are such that a high level of maturity and responsibility are required of students. Continued enrollment at The Governor's School is not automatic. It is contingent upon the student's satisfactory progress, achievement and conduct as determined by the administration and staff of The Governor's School for the Arts. Achievement and progress of each student are evaluated throughout the year and are reported four times during the year at intervals of approximately nine weeks. A part of the evaluation of student achievement may be a juried examination or other evaluations of the student's performance or art work. The outcome of these evaluations conducted during the year will be one basis for decisions on continued enrollment. Student conduct will be another basis for decisions on continued enrollment. |
